B&B - Honfleur - NORMANDY

Ideally situated in the center of historic Honfleur (St Catherine), this property offers you the best of what Honfleur has just steps from the front door! Located on rue Haute, the house is situated between the places of birth/museums of Alphonse Allais and Eric Satie.

The property comprises of two houses located side by side. The main house dates from 1830 - recently restored and now comprises of five beautifully decorated rooms; each with its own character, owing to unique furniture and objects chosen by Penny at local auctions and antique shops. Four of the rooms look out onto our peaceful private garden and its distinctive moorish-style folly.

The bedrooms are located on the second and third floors of the main house (no lift) via a large staircase. All rooms include private bath with either shower or bathtub. All have excellent bedding, lots of space and your comfort in mind.

Breakfast -- served around the large table in the original kitchen where a wood-burning stove creates a warm atmosphere during the winter months -- features fresh breads, jellies & pastries from Honfleur's finest bakers, and on market day fresh local butter, cheese and fruit juices!

Honfleur is a small medieval town, it reveals her riches to all those who take the time to look... The past is in evidence all around... calling to us... The Old Dock surrounded by picturesque narrow houses, this is with no doubt what catches the eye of every visitor upon their first visit to Honfleur. But the town is also St Catherine, St Etienne, St Léonard churches, the Lieutenant, the old Salt Stores, the medieval cobbled streets. With the great discoveries, Honfleur was the birthplace of numerous navigators, sailors and captains.
